

HAWAII TRAVELERS TIPS

This publication is intended to assist newly arrived travelers and returning residents with disabilities with accessibility features of the five major airports on the Hawaiian Islands. In addition, ground transportation, medical and support services are also described as well as a fact sheet on civil rights and air travel. This is not an endorsement of any particular facility or business, but is rather a compilation of resources from which a person might choose. Persons who need additional information or clarification about products and services are advised to contact the facility or business directly. If you have any comments about this publication, please direct them to the Disability and Communication Access Board (DCAB), 1(808) 586-8121 (V/TTY) or e-mail accesshi@aloha.net. This guide is also available on our web site at www.hawaii.gov/health/dcab/ and will contain more updated information than the print version.

State of Hawaii
Disability and Communication Access Board
July, 2002

No portion of this guide may be reproduced without the written permission of the Disability and Communication Access Board.